PANTHER PRIDE

shining through

As you walk through the atrium doors, you can feel it.

Wandering the halls you sense its presence, and you notice you're not the only one that is aware of it.

It seems to encase the entire school. It's even with you when you're off campus; it follows you. Once it envelopes you, it won't let you go.

It's something mystical;
It's something POWERFUL;
It's PANTHER PRIDE,
and it's shining through.

Fashion means different things to different people. To some, fashion is a pair of tattered jeans, a pair of Dr. Martens and an old flannel shirt.

For others, it takes a little more--a smart looking jacket or a yummy lil' number to throw on to go out at night.

Junior Mandy Postlewait, for example, says choosing the right clothes can enhance self esteem.

Could it be true that "The clothes make the man?"

Fashionable thoughts...

Lookin' good...

Some say a clean car runs better. While that may or may not be true, junior Josh Rhoads works to make sure his truck looks good during his leisure hours, far left. # HOPES and DREAMS

by Gina Marah

Every child from the age of eight has had a vision of what life will hold for him. Some wanted to be a fireman, others opted for a more realistic goal of growing up to be a princess.

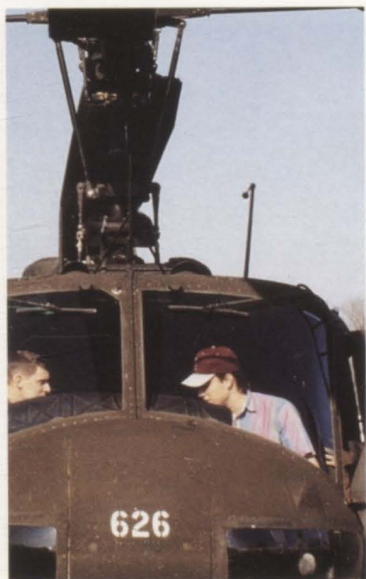

Since then, our dreams have taken on another form as we consider colleges and the careers for which we are best suited.

We all have different outlooks on life and the future, but we are all striving for the same American Dream.

What a friend...

HIGH SCHOOL RELATIONSHIPS ENDURING

by Lola Rhodes

Who is a best friend? A best friend is a friend that you can always count on, trust, feel safe with, and who will make you happy when you are down.

"Jeannine has always been there for me," senior Meadow McGlamery said of best friend, senior Jeannine Norris, "and when I feel bad, she makes me laugh. Jeannine is the kindest, biggest-hearted person I know."

Best friends stick together through thick and thin. Remember when you had that little spat with your parents or your insignificant other and your best friend stood beside you? Remember when you were in love and miserable or ecstatic or both?

"Past boyfriends are probably the biggest obstacle I have been through," said senior Angela Wilson. "All of my friends stuck by me through the break-ups."

Having a best friend can also bring tears along with joy.

For junior Heather Hartenstein, being a best friend is "having someone there for me when I have problems, just like I was there for her when she was sick."

Her "best friend," junior Shanna Benthall, survived Hodgkin's disease when she and Heather were freshmen and sophomores. As juniors, Heather says, "We've become even stronger in our relationship, because Shanna knows that no matter what, I'm here."

Shanna adds, "Now that I'm better, I can focus more on what I can do to be a better friend to Heather. There's really nothing I wouldn't do for her."

And while many people have many friends, they usually save a special corner of their hearts for a "best friend."

"Heather Burdick and I were driving in my car when a car came at us in our lane. She unbuckled her seatbelt and threw herself over me. Now, that's a true friend--willing to give her life for me. By the way, we were okay."--senior Gina Marah

In sickness and in health...

Sometimes friendship can bring out the most compassionate side of a person, as it did for junior Heather Hartenstein when her friend, junior Shanna Benthall, was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Disease. ### Friends victorious...

They became best friends when they started playing "T-ball" together. Seniors Terry Holden and Ryan Allen, have been teammates for four years on the Panther baseball team. Photo courtesy Bev Breedlove

WHAT MAKES YOU MOST PROUD OF YOUR BEST FRIEND?

"I'm most proud of my best friend, Renee [Hale], because she's always there for me."

--freshman Lisa Causey

"If I want to talk, April [Loman] will listen. If I need anything, I know I can ask her."

--freshman Melanie Welch

"I'm proud of my best friend, Casey [Henson], because even through she's going through a lot right now, she still has time for me."

Students 'Let it shine' during Spirit Week

by Beth Virtue & Kerri Brummet

Monday, Sept. 16, 1994: Spirit Week begins with "Bad Hair Day." Students' spirit showed when they had the nerve to show up looking like they hadn't combed their hair in years.

Tuesday came as "Teacher Impersonation Day." Not only did the students participate, but teacher Connie Killgore slightly resembled teacher Judy Kemper for the day.

Wednesday showed students sporting extremely unique footwear for "Funny Footwear Day." The winner in the teacher's category was Donna Moore with her rubber "reef walkers."

Thursday was a sticky day, the theme being "Stuck on Panthers Day." Students and teachers wore as many band-aids as possible. Junior Sara Swopes went all out with the box included.

And, finally, Friday was the traditional "Maroon and Gray Sprit Day." To get in spirit for the pep assembly, the Homecoming parade and football game, students and faculty dressed in their favorite maroon and gray rags. To go along with the tradition, secretary Nan Dunham was again named the all-around winner.

By noon, the gym was full of spirited students, teachers, and people of the community. The introduction of Homecoming candidates and attendants was followed by a "pep speech" by senior football player, Brian Stinson.

The football, volleyball and cross-country teams were introduced, along with the cheerleaders.

Later, students crowded around the town square to wait for the parade. Participants included the Panther Pride Marching Band, class floats and royalty.

Winners of the float contest were sophomores first, and juniors second. The parade was traditional with the exception of teacher Craig Finger who was directing his first Homecoming marching band.

Kick-off came at 7 p.m. with football players, Homecoming royalty and fans gathered for the Panthers upcoming battle with Cabool.

At half-time the gridiron Panthers were winning and the Homecoming Queen, Jodi Barnes, was crowned. The Panthers went on to win 31-12 over the Bulldogs to make a perfect ending to a very spirited week for the students and fans.

February brought a second "Spirit Week" which celebrated the Panther basketball program and Hoop Queen.

"I thought that Spirit Week was a lot of fun," said freshman Jakob Ellis, winner of 'Stuck on Panther Day.'

"I was really nervous about my first 'public performance' for the community," said new band director Craig Finger.

Mandy Roth, freshman attendant, said, "It was really hot and I just wanted the parade to be over with so I could change."

"I was just kicked back and relaxed through the whole thing," commented senior Nathan Looper.

Wherever you find proud Panthers, you are sure to find...

by Gina Marah

Just when you think you're all alone in this world and everyone in the human race is looking out for number one, you encounter that rare person who displays sympathy, goodwill and charity to his or her fellow man.

The spirit of hospitality runs deep in the hearts of students, some of whom show their altruistic side by joining Key Club--built on public service. "Youth of today need to start making a difference in our community. That's why Key Club is so different from other clubs. We love to help people, no matter whether it's a food drive, trash pick-up or serving at Kiwanis Pancake Day," explains senior Carrie Benson.

Others find individual activity is what best suits them. "It makes me feel good to help out. If I see an older person struggling with groceries, my kind-hearted side offers assistance," adds junior April Quick.

Where would we be without our

PETS

by Gina Marah

Pets are everywhere--T.V. shows, the movies and even on the comic page (who doesn't love Calvin and Hobbs or Garfield?). Americans are crazy about animals, and this pet phenomom doesn't exempt MGHS. Four out of five households have at least one member that doesn't walk upright.

"When I'm riding, I have no cares or worries," explains junior Jodi Vaughan. "All I think about is me, my horse, and how good I feel."

No matter whether dog, fish, bird or snake, we all have a tender place in our hearts for that special pet that greets us at the door, sleeps on our bellies, or just lays there and listens to our problems.

Where would we be without our faithful friends?

Veggies, please...

Waggin' their tails...

What do pigs and dogs have in common? Not much, but they both bring joy to their owners, freshman Michelle Hawkins with "Bonanza Hoss," top right, and sophomore Donny Anderson with "Arnold," right, a "souvenir" from a Texas wild boar hunt.

Puppies & snakes & sheep... Oh, my!

Baa-a-a-a...

Flashing his sheepish grin, freshman Wendall Schrock helps little brother, John, take a woolly ride aboard "Bobby," a special family pet.

Hissing and purring...

Warmth in the snow...

What's better than playing in the snow? Freshman Windy Willms proves that playing in the snow with a furry friend beats school on a snow day for sure. Here, her collie, Laddie, shares a warm moment with her.

Organizations

When Panthers want to find others who share their talents, they don't have to look too far. From band to FFA, many talents at MGHS are shining through.

Groups reach out...

While many organizations offer students an opportunity to meet with others who share their interests, many others focus on helping the community. The Panther is an excellent role model, just as members of the many MGHS organizations are the pride of our school and town. Here the Panther entertains future proud Panthers--coach Kyle Roach's three sons and coach Bob Vandiver's daughter. Photo by Ryan Allen

New director takes up baton

Finger reorganizes award-winning band

by Dana Ellis

With new band director, Craig Finger, the band headed in a new direction. Competing in two contests made the band stronger and more dedicated. Senior Alison Turner said, "After each contest, we gradually improved."

After practicing hard for a month, the band made a shining debut for an exuberant hometown crowd. The show included "Pictures at an Exhibition," "Summertime," "Hush," and "A Mighty Fortress."

On Senior Night, they added the crowd favorite, "YMCA."

Concerts entertain audiences

Classics to jazz, musicians shine

by Sara Swopes

Another year of concerts and competitions kept members of the concert and jazz bands busy, but there was one difference: the bands sported a new director, Craig Finger.

Finger came to Mtn. Grove fresh from SMSU and took control of the traditional array of events the band is involved in.

The band received a I rating in State competition and several soloists and ensembles competed successfully, as well.

Concerts attract crowds to gym

Choirs showcased in seasonal concerts

by Jodi Vaughan

Vocal music students spent hours rehearsing for competition, but more importantly to the community, they offered a variety of concerts to the public.

The traditional Christmas concert was preceded by a Fall concert and followed by a spring-time event.

Spring was also the time of year for contests. The girls' selectet traveled to Houston, Missouri, for the SCA Honors Choir and a State contest in Willow Springs, for example.

Several individual members also participated in regional honors choirs with students from several area schools.

Choir was an enjoyable outlet for singers. It was enjoyable entertainment to others, such as those who were serenaded Valentine's Day, a selectet fundraising venture.

"I was a little embarrassed, but I loved being serenaded," said junior Justin Sutherland whose friend, junior Shanna Benthall, hired the selectet to sing to her beau.

Barnwarming swingin' event

Royalty and dancin' part of FFA's year

by Meadow McGlamery

Dancing to the theme, 'Lifestyles of the Not So Rich and Famous,' Barnwarming was a success, but not just for those in attendance. Those attending donated canned items to the Division of Family Services.

FFA members participate in a camp and the Tri-County Fair in June, Washington Leadership Conference and Area 8 training workshop in July. Other activities include FFA Week, Made for Excellence, softball party, BOAC "Adopt a Highway," slave auction and an Area 8 skating party.

World of industry in focus

VICA a forum for like-minded people

by Lola Rhodes

VICA includes students from several different vocational classes such as Health Occupations, Welding, Building Trades, and Auto Body.

Contests this year took place at Camdenon. VICA also sold lollipops to earn money for community projects for the vocational school.

Senior Laura Hagan said, "I like VICA because it gets us ready for the real world and teaches us leadership qualities."

Industrial Arts offers future opportunities

by Lola Rhodes

Industrial Arts had eight members this year. Contests were held April 8 in the high school cafeteria.

"In Industrial Arts we built a grandfather clock for a raffle fundraiser. The money went towards our year end trip," said senior Cindy Loch.

Encore! debuts in local newspaper

by Lola Rhodes

Community members read even more high school news this year, as the Journalism classes began producing a page in the local News-Journal. The Panther Perspective ENCORE!, appeared the third Wednesday of each month.

"At the beinning of the year, we had about two weeks to learn the basics of journalism, before we had to put out the first ENCORE!. It was great to see our work in the local paper," said photo editor, senior Meadow McGlamery.

Computer skills critical on yearbook

by Lola Rhodes

A six-hour school bus trip to Marceline, Missouri, highlighted the year for the yearbook and newspaper staffs. Walsworth Publishing Co. publishes the MGHs yearbook, and yearbook staffers gained valuable insight into how the publishing process--particularly in the computer area--works.

While at Walsworth, students toured two buildings and saw the entire process first-hand. "I was surprised to see how much work, how many people are involved, and how much money goes into putting out a yearbook," noted junior Sara Swopes.

The Photography class helped produce the yearbook with the aid of a brand new color darkroom. The new facilities put Mtn. Grove in the forefront of high school publishing.

Numbers add up for M&S members

by Meadow McGlamery

Keeping busy, Math and Science Club members prepared for the annual Middle School Math Relays which included a new General Science category.

Much work and preparation was required since the members write the tests themselves.

As president, senior Ben Loney says, "We get a first hand experience at taking on too much when nearly 400 little kids come screaming through the doors on test day."

Members also planned several activities for Environmental Week in April.

NHS offers more than good grades

by Beth Virtue

National Honor Society represents some of the most prestigious young Americans in the nation. Membership is based on their scholarship, character, leadership and service.

NHS is involved in community projects and activities such as buying Christmas gifts for underprivileged children and visiting the Extended Care Unit at Ozarks Medical Center in West Plains.

"I like being in an organization where students are proud of their academic accomplishments and sense of responsibility and don't have to apologize for their achievements," explained junior Carrie Tuck.

StuCo provides services, activities

by Beth Virtue

The Student Council participated in and sponsored many activities involving students and teachers along with the community. After a rocky start and not much interest from the students, the council finally hit success with the Jack of Hearts Hoop Queen Dance.

"It was our most successful dance in a long time," said junior class president Heather Hartenstein.

On April 28 the council ran a bloodmobile in cooperation with the community. "The students seemed to enjoy helping the community," sponsor Marcia Stumpff said.

Members also sponsored an MDA Volleyball Tourney, Homecoming, Net King and Hoop Queen activities, as well as forming a teacher appreciation committee.

by Daleana Ledbetter

Capitalizing on natural childhood behavior helps make Hi-Step effective.

"I think Hi-Step is effective as a prevention technique because elementary students admire high school students and like to copy everything they do," explains sponsor Judy Kemper.

Hi-Step, High School Taught Elementary Program, encourages all participants to live safe, healthy lifestyles.

"Bible Club is a time when Christian students can get together and regroup," said member Candice Beard. "It's very difficult to be strong in your beliefs all the time, and having people to fall back on is a blessing."

Club president Adina Doroscan agrees, "Knowing that there are other Christians with strong beliefs inspires me to pursue my growth in Christ." Through Bible Club, members hear weekly lessons on various topics concerning their faith.

Big Buddies offer friendship to youth

by Jodi Vaughan

In Big Buddies students from the high school visit the elementary and middle schools to serve as role models for younger students. The "big buddies" also invite the kids to the high school to eat lunch and tour.

The older youth help the kids with homework and encourage the kids to do well in school. They also show the kids that school can be fun and rewarding.

Career oriented students meet

Future teachers gain experience

by Sara Swopes

FTA's main activity is sponsoring cadet teaching at the middle and elementary schools. Cadet teachers are sent over every month to different sponsoring teachers where they interact with a classroom of young students.

FTA also elects a "Teacher of the Month" who is recognized for his or her special contribution to the students.

FHA helps prepare students for future

by Candice Beard

Future Homemakers of America focuses on the modern art of homemaking. Throughout the year the club participates in many activities such as regional meetings and fundraisers like "Top Turkey" teacher competition that benefit the community.

At the Regional 9 meeting, junior Carrie Tuck was elected secretary. "I was super nervous but calmed down after I learned I had the position. I had a lot of fun and know I'll have a lot more fun at future meetings," Tuck said.

Other events for FHA included the "Power for One" projects, "STAR" events, implementing the "Family Acting for Community Traffic Safety Program," adopting a grandparent at the nursing home, taking an annual trip and attending the State confer-

Art, culture enrich environment

Art Club shines in tough contests

by Jodi Vaughan

Competition was uppermost in the minds of Art Club members as they readied entries for both the Alpha Rho Tau and District art contests. Members also helped produce the annual Art Fair at the elementary school.

"I spent months working on a collage for Alpha Rho Tau," said senior Meadow McGlamery.

Many of the award winning works were on display in the high school office throughout the year.

Foreign Cultures broadens views

by Jodi Vaughan

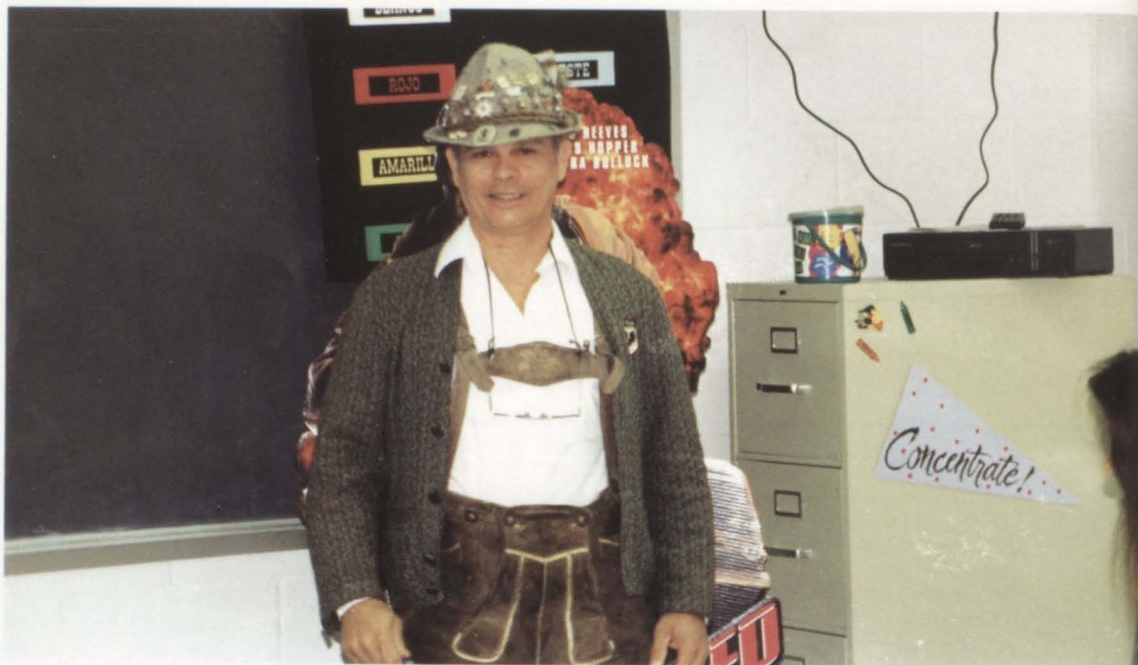

Foreign Cultures is a club that allows students to learn about and appreciate different cultures and languages.

Members also helped the community by donating canned food and cash to the Division of Family Services.

For Christmas members held a party at sponsor Donna Moore's house. They dressed up in costumes of other countries and made dishes to share. They also planned a Spring trip to Kahokia Mounds near St. Louis.

"We have guests from different countries. This fosters an open mind about other ways of life. We develop respect for cultures other than our own," said president Adina Doroscan.

"It will also benefit me later because I hope to do a lot of traveling," she added.

FBLA shines in District competition

by Jodi Vaughan

FBLA is a club for students interested in future plans for the business world. To be in this club you must have taken or be currently enrolled in a business class.

Students annually attend a business and explore what it takes to run and work in that business. This year, instead of going to a local business, the members went to Springfield to the MCI building.

On March 11 members went to Districts at Gainesville, where the outcome was great with many members placing in the top 10. David Harris was elected District President and Connie Thompson, District Treasurer.

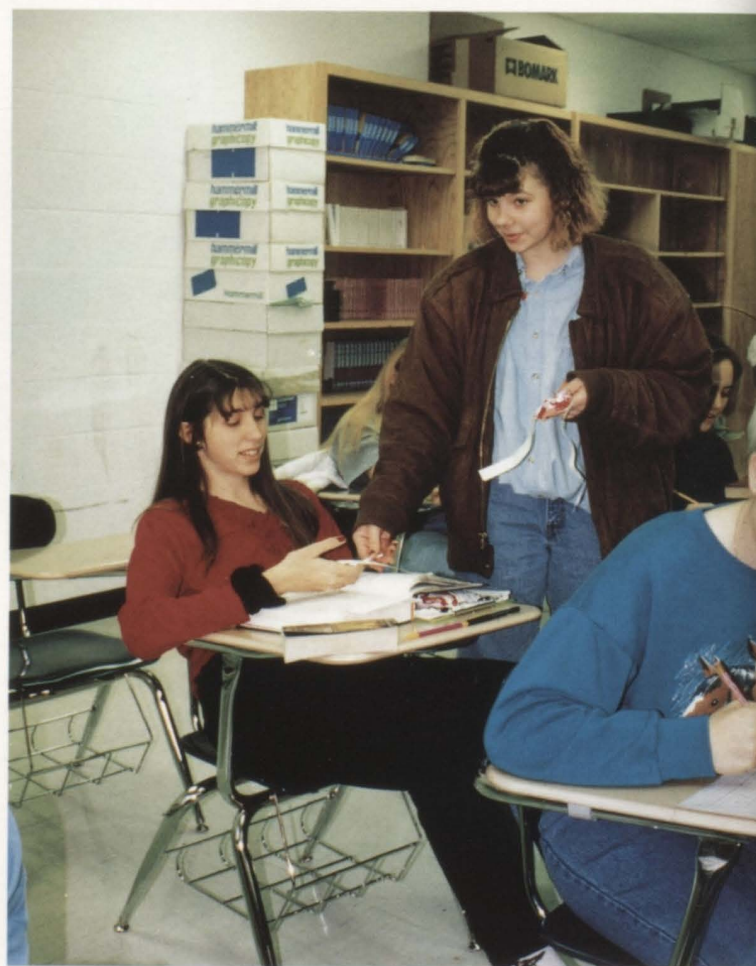

FBLA would be traveling with DECA members to Worlds of Fun in the spring.

When Panthers want to find others who love athletics, they don't have to look too far. From football to baseball, athletes at MGHS are shining through.

Take me out...

The Panther discovers that MGHS provides scores of opportunities for athletes to compete in a wide variety of team and individual sports. As he tries his paw at baseball, he might call on the cross country stamina and strength he built last fall. He might draw from the teamwork he experienced in basketball and volleyball. His swiftness, perhaps from track, and confidence from golfing will always serve him well. Photo by Ryan Allen

Panthers 'Come out and play'

by Beth Virtue & Kerri Brummet

By the time the parade rolled around, the sun was shining through the rain clouds that had loomed over all morning long. The day had begun dreadfully, but would soon end remarkably.

The theme, "Come Out and Play," summed up the mood of the Panthers as their excitement shone through.

By halftime, the three senior candidates let their own excitement show. "I could barely hear Beth announce my name over the chants of the crowd," recalls Queen Jodi Barnes.

The gridiron Panthers pulled out a 31-12 victory over the Cabool Bulldogs.

"We knew that they [Cabool] would be better than last year, but we had confidence in ourselves," senior Lonnie Lathrom said.

N ew look shines on gridiron

by Ryan Allen

A new coaching staff brought a new look to the 1994 Panther football team as it finished with a 5-5 record.

Led by 13 seniors including several newcomers and outstanding juniors, the gridiron guys thrilled Panther fans with a new offensive look including a potent passing game and several new offensive sets.

"The kids adapted to a new system and coaching staff very well. Their positive attitude and hard work contributed to having a competitive season," new head coach Kyle Roach said.

On a rain-drenched field at Salem against a tough state-ranked team, the Panthers came out at half time down 21-10. The defense's intensity kept the Panthers in games all season and the Salem game was no different. The defense shut down Salem's potent offense allowing only six points in the second half. MG eventually lost by a meager three points.

A one point loss to state-ranked Springfield Catholic and a one point overtime loss to District and Sectional champ, Ava, left fans wondering what might have been if the Panthers hadn't been plagued with injuries to three key starters and several other team members.

It almost seemed as if casts, crutches and wheelchairs were part of the Panther uniform in '94.

I njuries plague rebuilding effort

by Ryan Allen

As the football season began, MG offered a separate JV and freshman team. It was the first time in several years that the freshmen were offered an opportunity to play together as a team. As the year progressed, however, injuries forced the combination of the two teams.

The younger Panthers gained valuable experience as they learned the system and prepared for their chance to contribute to the varsity team.

Coach Quentin Albrecht said, "JV football was a great experience for the boys this year. At times we played with only 12 boys on the squad, so they had to go hard both ways--offense and defense. Lance Jones, Denver Hawkins and Nathan Hull stepped up and provided great leadership."

Beginning the season with their own team and later joining forces with the JV, the freshmen also benefitted from the extra playing time. "The freshmen had a good year with Jerred Yarger doing most of the scoring. The low numbers of players limited what we could do," said coach J.T. Hale.

The new coaching staff indicated they expected to build a strong football program as a continued focus on the lower grades builds interest and more students sign up for the football experience.

King "Shag" reigns over Net

By Beth Virtue & Kerri Brummet

Immediately following the JV team's victory over the West Plains Lady Zizzers, the Net King ceremony began. After the announcement of the attendants and candidates came the crowning of the new 1994 King.

"It was the most embarrassing moment of my senior year," remarked King "Shag" Parker.

Senior Tanna Gilley was in tears from the laughter, "I was so surprised when he dipped me," she said.

That historical kiss preceded a truly historical game for the Lady Panthers as they rallied for an exciting win against West Plains.

"It was the most awesome game of my high school career," senior Cindy Loch said.

Ladies overpower old rival

by Kim Holland

Defeating the powerhouse West Plains Zizzers for the first time since 1988 was cause for pride and celebration on the home court Oct. 13.

The Lady Panthers lost the first set 4-15 but came roaring back to take the Zizzers 15-10 and 15-4 for the victory.

Senior player, Cindy Loch said, "West Plains is a rival we have tried to beat for a long time and to finally succeed was a thrill of a lifetime."

"It was one of the only games that the team played as one. Everyone was on and we played well off each other," she added.

Despite four returning starters and strong bench players, the Ladies finished the season with a 10-13 record.

"I think we were a better team this year. Even though we didn't have a winning record, we had a successful season," said coach Karen Clayton.

The six seniors provided strong leadership for the team. Their example of hard work and dedication will be hard to replace but with quality underclassmen who have a lot of experience, the hope for a strong season next year is justifiable.

"I felt like we had a strong season together and we worked as a team more than we have in the past. I think there is a possibility we will be as competitive because we have a lot of experienced people playing," said sophomore Jill Douglass.

With a combined record of 13-15, the J.V. and freshman Lady Panthers ended the season feeling pretty confident about next year. With an unusually large interest in the sport, a freshman as well as J.V. team were formed to accommodate the many players. In addition, Billie Miller assumed the assistant coaching position as Mike Mallow moved into the Athletic Director position.

Having played many close games the J.V. team ended the season with a winning record of 10-8. The team sported eight returning juniors and five returning sophomores. Highlights of the season included beating long time rival West Plains twice in a row, beating Liberty in the third set of play, and beating Rogersville in the second set of play taking them to a third and losing by only six.

The freshman team ended the season with a 3-7 record. They participated in the West Plains J.V. tournament playing against tough opponents such as West Plains and Houston.

"I saw a lot of improvement throughout the year. I think next year we will be even more competitive," says coach Karen Clayton.

New faces on the court next year are going to be a factor to the teams success.

The girls' team and two individual boys advanced to State Cross Country competition, a classic case of deja-vu, because since the program began in 1979, the girls have qualified for State twelve times. Coach Terry Azevedo attributes the success to "good talent."

Junior Dana Holland came on strong for the third consecutive year, winning the District title in Monett with a time of 20:43. The team placed second at Districts advancing to Jefferson City.

A morning downpour left the course extremely muddy and slippery which made for bad running conditions. The team finished a disappointing fifteenth.

With everyone back next year the young team is determined to shine in a repeat performance. "I think the future for our team is promising and strong. With younger runners comes enthusiasm and potential," Dana Holland said.

The boys team did not qualify for State but placed two individuals in the top 15. A fifth place finish for senior Heath Bressie and an eleventh place finish for junior Scott Ramaeker earned them a trip to the State meet.

Bressie and Ramaeker led the boys to strong finishes in most meets throughout the year.

Heather crowned Christmas queen

Miss Merry Christmas

by Beth Virtue & Kerri Brummet

The town square began filling up with people on the Dec. 14 afternoon, all anxious to see the crowning of Miss Merry Christmas.

At 6 p.m. the candidates were presented and senior Heather Burdick was crowned queen. After 1993 Miss Merry Christmas, Jenny (Barnes) Calhoun, placed the crown on Heather's head, escort Jared Windhauser placed the royal kiss on her lips.

After what seemed to many like hours of waiting, the police car finally rolled to the front of the parade. The cold weather didn't seem to keep the community away as spectators cheered the Panther Pride Marching Band and then waved to the candidates one last time.

Throughout the parade were many different float entries from local organizations, schools and churches. Also attending were the marching bands from Norwood and Bakersfield High Schools. The winner in the religious category was the Cabool Assembly of God. Up N' At 'Em 4 - H Club won the non-religious category. The grand prize winner was Girl Scout Troop 401.

A new addition to the walkers in the parade was the "Legend" James Jones from Cabool. He has become an inspiration to the youth as a participant in the YMCA Run for Youth.

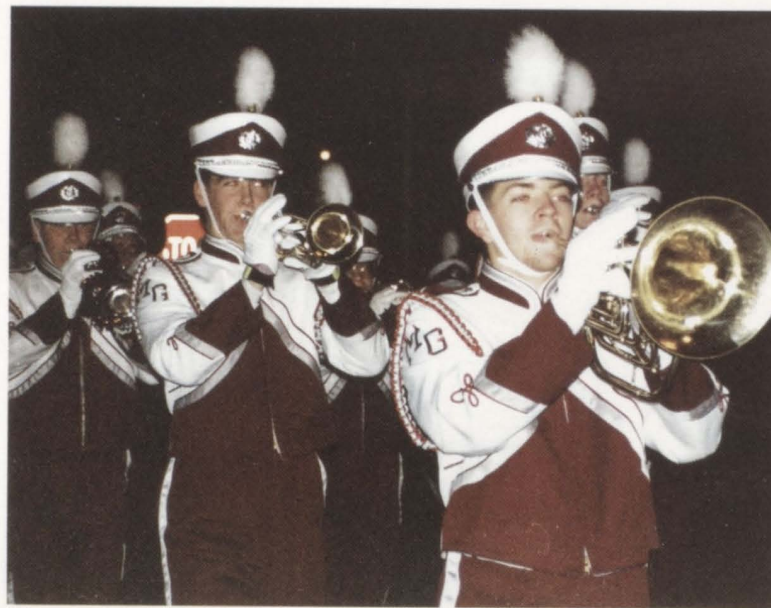

After the end of the parade went around the final corner of the parade route, spectators quickly returned to their vehicles trying to beat the rush of traffic. It was a very Merry Christmas.

N ew coach encourages team

by Ryan Allen & Brandon Rodgers

The basketball team got off to a slow start. Two returning starters were out for the season with football injuries and 6'8" sophomore Chris Ridens underwent knee surgery.

By January, however, the team had regrouped, was red hot, and basketball fever was on the rise.

Under new head coach Danny Cantrell's guidance, the Panthers found themselves showing off a new look.

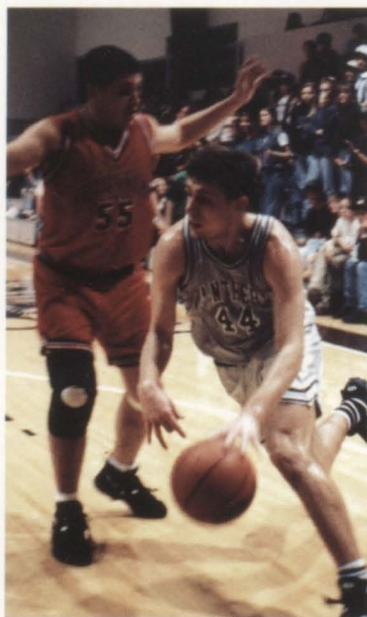

The team started with a 2-6 record but things then began to come together. Led by four seniors, the team posted a 13-10 record, winning 11 of their last 15 games.

"We will miss our seniors who contributed greatly to the success of our team, and are looking forward to next year," coach Danny Cantrell said.

Jan. 28 the Panthers defeated Hartville 51-50 to win the championship of the Panther McDonald Classic, the boys first tournament championship in 12 years. They trounced Hartville a week later 79-66.

Big wins over arch rivals Houston and Mansfield sweetened the season.

"Once we beat Mansfield our season came together. We regained a lot of confidence and knew we could play with anyone," Ryan Allen said.

eam splits season, builds

by Ryan Allen

Both the junior varsity and freshman boys teams had a rough year finishing below .500. In spite of talented players and a height advantage over several teams, things just wouldn't click for either team.

Under the direction of assistant coach Mike Mallow the junior varsity boys finished the season with a 6-15 record. "We never really had a set starting team so we didn't really get used to playing with one another. But Coach tried to give everyone a lot of experience and everyone got to play a lot," said junior Wayco Yarber.

The freshman boys team finished 9-4-95 with a record of 3-6, under the coaching of Quentin Albrecht.

Several freshmen split time between the freshman and junior varsity teams while some freshmen moved to full-time junior varsity early in the season.

"Moving to junior varsity was a big change. The practices got harder and the competition was a lot better," said freshman Jerred Yarger.

The added experience for both junior varsity and freshmen team members will help Coach Cantrell as he strives to build a top notch basketball program at MGHS.

by Beth Virtue & Kerri Brummet

Hoop Queen was, as usual, a nerve racking occasion for three senior girls. Fortunately for the fans, the basketball players were not at all nervous about their game against the Liberty Eagles.

As the JV game came down to the final seconds, the attendants and candidates waited to be introduced at the intermission.

After the underclassmen attendants were introduced, the three senior candidates came out to await the announcement of the winner. "I was so nervous about waiting for someone to tell me who won, but when I finally heard my name, I was more relieved than anything," said Queen Carrie Atchley.

Alumnus Michelle McGilliard, standing in for 1994 Queen Marita Schaeffer, crowned Carrie and her escort, Brian Stinson, who promptly kissed her.

The new queen and her 'king' were congratulated by the rest of the royal court after having their group picture taken. As Carrie was escorted off the court the Hoop Queen crowd cheered her on. They continued cheering as the varsity Panthers went on to defeat the Eagles.

Injuries plague talented team

by Ryan Allen

The Lady Panthers' hopes for an outstanding season were quickly dashed as they lost their only returning starter and All-Conference player to a pre-season football injury--powder puff football, that is.

It was mid-season before Jodi Barnes was able to overcome a knee injury and join the line-up as a regular starter. Seniors Kim Holland and Tanna Gilley came through as team leaders but Barnes' scoring average of 12.5 points a game proved hard to replace. "I was very disappointed to sit out the beginning of the season. We had a tough year as a lot of injuries, but we improved as the season progressed," Barnes said.

This injury seemed to set the tone as the injury-riddled team ended its season 8-15. The only full-time varsity ladies who played every game were sophomores Erica Craig and Amanda Hutchinson and Holland who played injured the last month of the season.

At times the Panthers looked good, only down by 4 with two minutes left in the game to a tough and eventual Conference champ, West Plains. They won second in the Mtn. Grove Tournament losing to the Houston Tigers in the championship game.

Coach Jim Breedlove said, "In spite of our numerous injuries the girls never gave up and always kept a positive attitude which allowed them to remain competitive in most of their games. I'm proud of them."

adies fill roster with talent

by Kim Holland & Jodi Barnes

The junior varsity Lady Panthers finished with a 9-8 record. Twelve girls filled coach Jim Breedlove's junior varsity roster, the largest number out for basketball in several years.

LeeAnn Spurgeon began the season as assistant coach but left in December to begin training for the Mo. State Highway Patrol. After graduating from College of the Ozarks in Branson, Tammy Gee replaced Spurgeon over Christmas break. "I learned a lot that will help me as I continue my coaching career and I enjoyed the opportunity to work with the girls and Coach Breedlove," said Coach Gee.

"Coach Spurgeon did a good job, but Coach Gee was a good coach who taught us a lot. Both coaches were a lot of fun and meaningful to the team," said freshman Sara Johnson.

Everyone saw playing time on the junior varsity team. "Our goal was to win but also to try to get every girl in each game at some point," explained Coach Breedlove. "We probably would have won even more games if so many people hadn't played varsity part-time due to injuries on the varsity."

Sophomore Sherry Ogletree said, "Playing varsity part of the time helped prepare me for next season."

The freshman girls finished as the Panthers only undefeated team, playing one game.

B oys of summer sizzling

by Ryan Allen

Going into the 1995 baseball season with high expectations and lots of Panther pride, the team kept the tradition of success at MGHS alive as they finished with a 13-4 record.

The team only returned four starters from the 1994 team, but those four along with the new players moving up from JV were able to expand coach Jim Breedlove's career record to 316 varsity wins.

"Every year I wonder who I'll find to replace the past year's seniors, but every year the guys come through," explained Breedlove. "I appreciate the hard work and dedication the boys give every year. They have a lot to be proud of. No matter what the score, these guys are winners," he continued.

The weather didn't cooperate in 1995, as the Panthers' schedule was shortened by four games due to rain.

"We should have had at least three, maybe four, more wins if we had played all of our games," said senior Terry Holden.

Although the baseball team posted one of the best sport records at MGHS, it was also a season of disappointment. The team placed second in the MG Tourney after losing one of its best games of the year to Licking. The Panthers also placed second in the SCA behind a tough West Plains team.

"Losing to Houston in the District tournament was a big disappointment," said senior Lonnie Lathrom. "It just wasn't our day, but I'll always be proud that I was a part of Panther baseball for four years."

N umbers equal fine season

by Ryan Allen

Finishing the season with a 9-5 record, the 23 boys who contributed to the success of the JV baseball team gained valuable experience as they prepare to continue the winning tradition of Panther baseball at MGHS.

An agreement between the opposing coaches prior to each game allowed both teams to use free substitution. This allowed each player more playing time and valuable game experience.

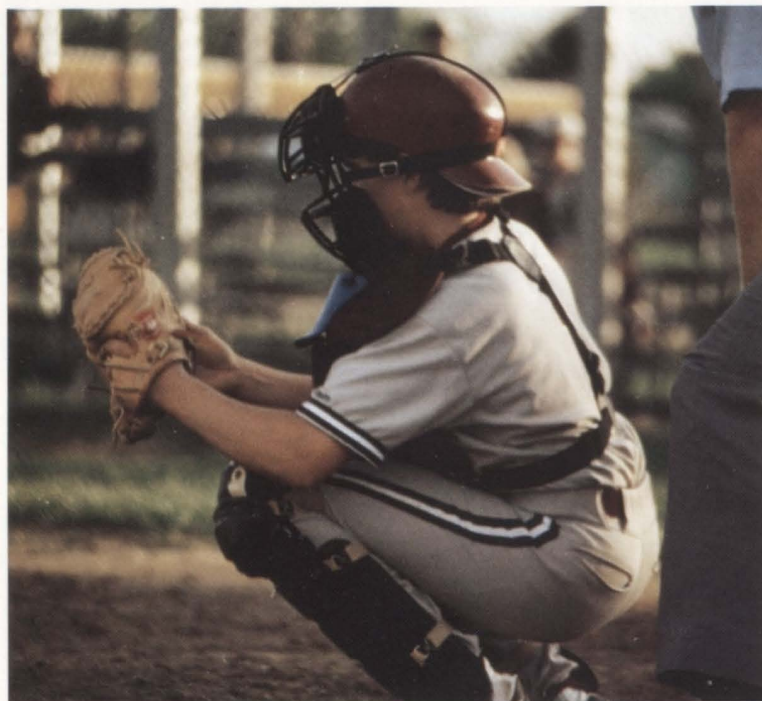

"We could probably have won more games if we had just put the best nine men on the field and played them," commented coach Jim Breedlove. "However," he continued, "I believe the success in the baseball program in the past can be attributed to keeping the younger players involved."

Breedlove's philosophy has been proven to be true as baseball has been one of the most winning programs at MGHS for several years.

"Sometimes I would like to play more," commented sophomore Jeremy Crewse, "but I know that my turn to be a varsity starter is coming."

Sophomore Donny Anderson added, "By starting on JV and playing some on the varsity I think we'll be ready to step into the varsity program and do our part in order to keep the baseball team shining in the future."

Every year the seniors are hard to replace, but every year the underclassmen come through and get the job done. Fans can look forward to more exciting times as these young players become the varsity team of tomorrow.

T rack team stays on top

by Kim Holland

There was a surprisingly big turnout this year as the track season shifted into high gear. Ten freshmen joined the veteran tracksters.

Numerous highlights made a memorable season.

Senior Shane Hylton set a new school record in the pole vault breaking his own with a vault of 13'6", and broke the Conference record with a 13'5" vault. That record had stood for 18 years. Hylton also holds the Conference and District championships in the pole vault. "I'm really going to miss vaulting next year; it was a great experience," Hylton said.

Junior Dana Holland was a strong force this year not only breaking a 12-year-old school record in the 3200 meter run with a time of 11:42.17, but also winning the Conference championship and receiving 2nd at Districts. She advanced to the Sectional meet where she placed 3rd. She qualified for the State track meet in Jefferson City. Placing 10th at State, Holland ended her season with flying colors. "I'm looking forward to next year and all the fun it will bring. I love working with all my teammates; their encouragement pushes me further. I hope to improve my times next year," Holland said.

Many other tracksters received Conference honors, including senior Brian Stinson, who took the Conference championship in the long jump.

Sprngtime calls to golfers

by Meadow McGlamery

The grass is green, birds are singing. Spring is calling, a call silent and clear, a call to yell "Fore!," to tee off, to play golf.

Nine students answered that call. Every day after school these players, led by coach Carl Williams, practiced their game at the Randel Municipal Golf Course.

Sometimes the call of the wild sounded causing setbacks. "Bad weather cut several practices short," explained senior Ben Loney.

Yet as senior Bryan Allen said, "The cold days made it hard to play but kept scores down during competition."

Special students enter competition

by Randy Sterner

The new organization, "Sporting Chances," has provided an opportunity for MGHS students to compete in several sporting events such as basketball, track and field and bowling.

Many students enjoyed competing with the new organization. Senior Kevin Allsman won a gold medal in bowling. Terry Perkins and Tim Headings celebrated a silver medal victory, and Kelly Chernowsky received a bronze medal in the same competition.

Similar to Special Olympics, Sporting Chances gives everybody a chance to excel. Headings said, "I am really going to miss it."

Ault one-woman team for second year

by Alison Turner

She practices four days and competes twice a week, sophomore Lindsay Ault is Mtn. Grove High School's only swim team member.

"My favorite thing is competing against my friends whom I train with," Ault states. She practices for a couple hours a day. Her favorite event is the 100 Meter Breast Stroke where her best time is 1:19.04.

"One of my most embarrassing moments was at a high school meet. As I got on the block the judges had to tell me three times to step on the edge of the blocks," Ault said, "It was a different rule then the USS."

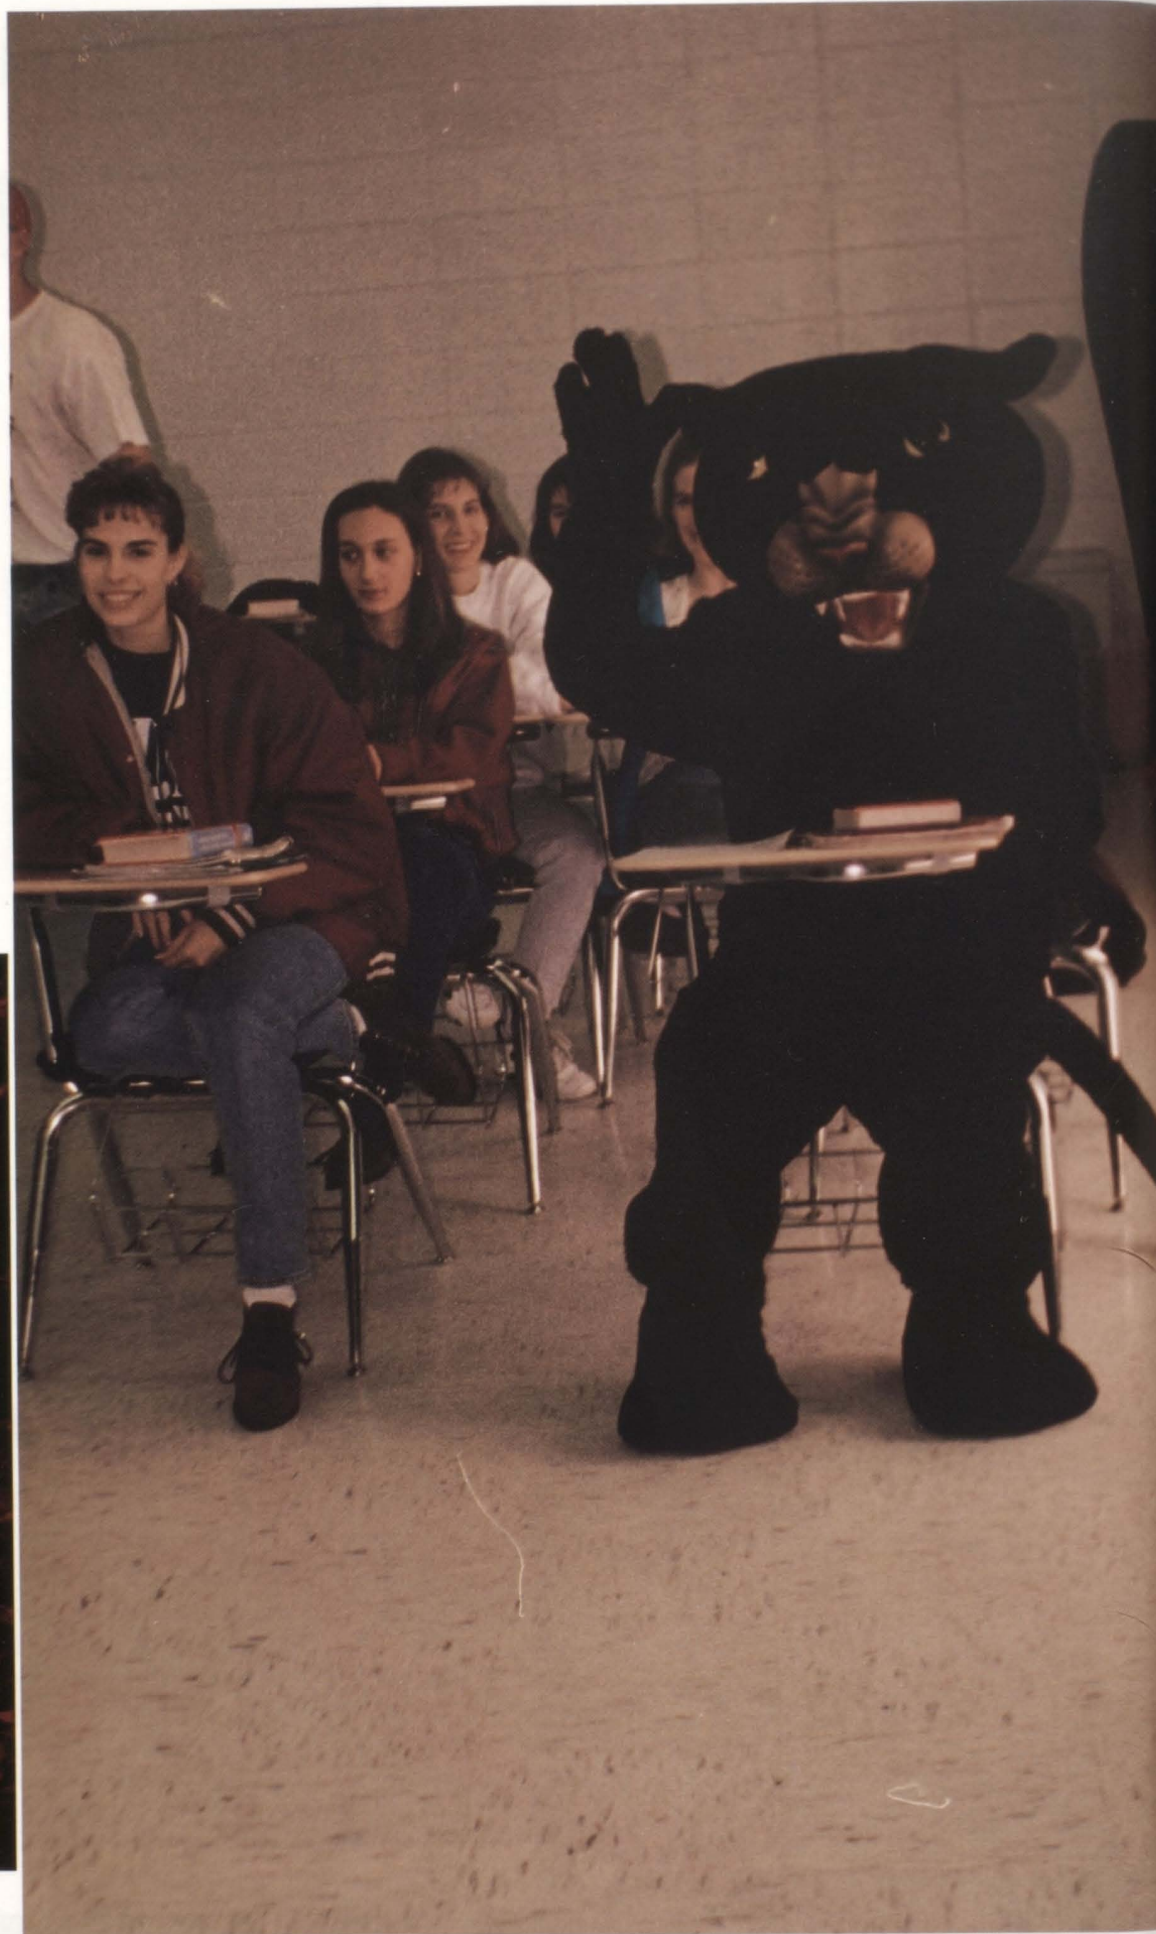

Lindsay Ault competes in the breast stroke.

Benson marks final year as MGHS principal

by Alison Turner and Meadow McGlamery

With more than 24 years at MGHS, Alan Benson will be retiring at semester of the '95-'96 school year.

"I have many mixed emotions. I will miss the faculty and kids," Benson says, "but I look forward to new experiences." His plans for the future include selling his farm, purchasing a 3/4 ton truck and traveling around the U.S. and Canada.

He leaves with many memories. "My saddest is on March 14, 1991, when the school burned down," recalls Benson.

"I've enjoyed being a part of the lives of MGHS students and I appreciate all that Mtn. Grove and the community have done for me and my family." He will be greatly missed.

Tragic accident hospitalizes Loretta MacIntosh

On Feb. 20, school board treasurer, Loretta MacIntosh, was involved in a car accident in Kansas as she was returning to Mtn. Grove from a visit with her daughter.

She remained in a coma in a Wichita hospital for several weeks, but her condition was improving at the school year's end.

Tech Prep offers students choice

Unique program offered for first time at MGHS

by Alison Turner

A new way of teaching is emerging along with new class offerings such as Technical Reading and Applied Science. Traditional courses, too, are affected by new ways of thinking and teaching.

"Gone is the emphasis on poetry, Shakespeare and research papers in the Tech Prep classes," says English teacher Les Top.

"The emphasis now is on communication skills, job research, memo writing and interpreting and comprehensive reading skills," he continued.

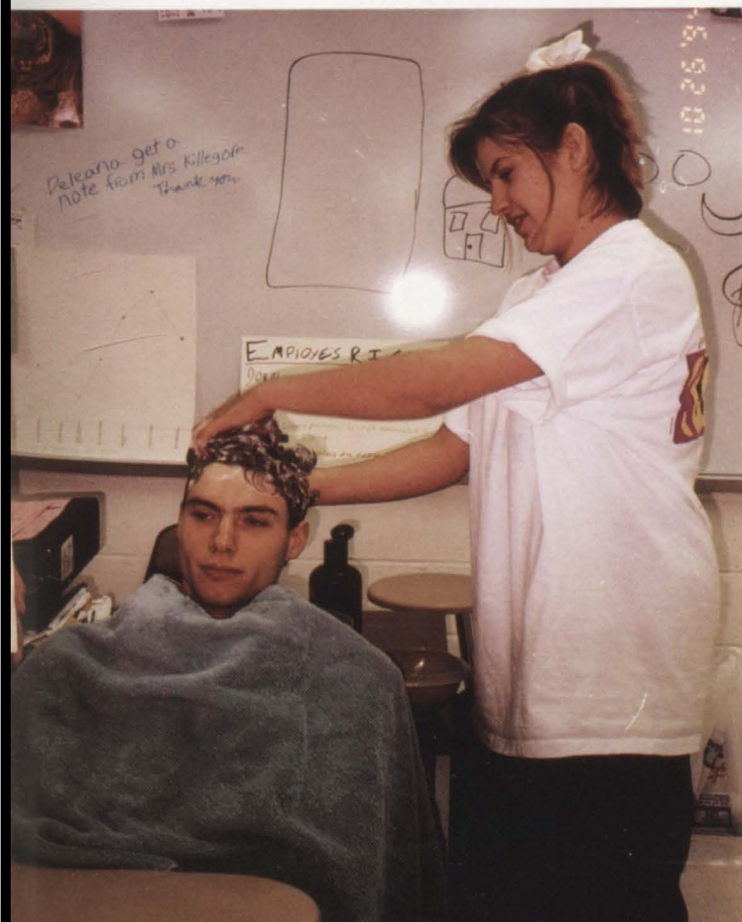

"School to work" is the buzzword for the '90s.

Hands on...

Although the Science Fiction class has been around for several years, building creatures is a new experience for most students. Her first year at Mtn. Grove, English teacher Sherri Dwornick incorporated a "hands on" activity that proved to be fun as well as educational when students such as juniors Chris Burkhardt and Jaime Hickerson, above, built models of aliens. Photo by Brandon Rodgers

Tech Reading class gave real meaning to that "hands on" phrase as senior Selina Hensley puts her hands on senior Mark Marsa's head to demonstrate knowledge learned from reading a brochure on pesticides. The brochure was provided by the local SMSU Fruit Experiment Station. Photo by Ryan Allen

Crofford brings new ideas to MGHS Vo-Tech

by Lola Rhodes

With a new administrator, Earl Crofford, came new ideals and goals.

Crofford said plans are to add both classes and students. A "turf landscape" class is on the agenda and "We will also be receiving students from Houston," Crofford said.

"I believe we should offer courses that will give our students a well-rounded education," Crofford continued. His goal is to "provide students with hands-on experience and teach them the skills that will help them get a good job."

Crofford has been instrumental in helping to get the district's new "tech prep" program rolling.

"Tech prep is part of our overall education program. It is part of the A+ Schools program and will provide hands-on experience to our students," he explained.

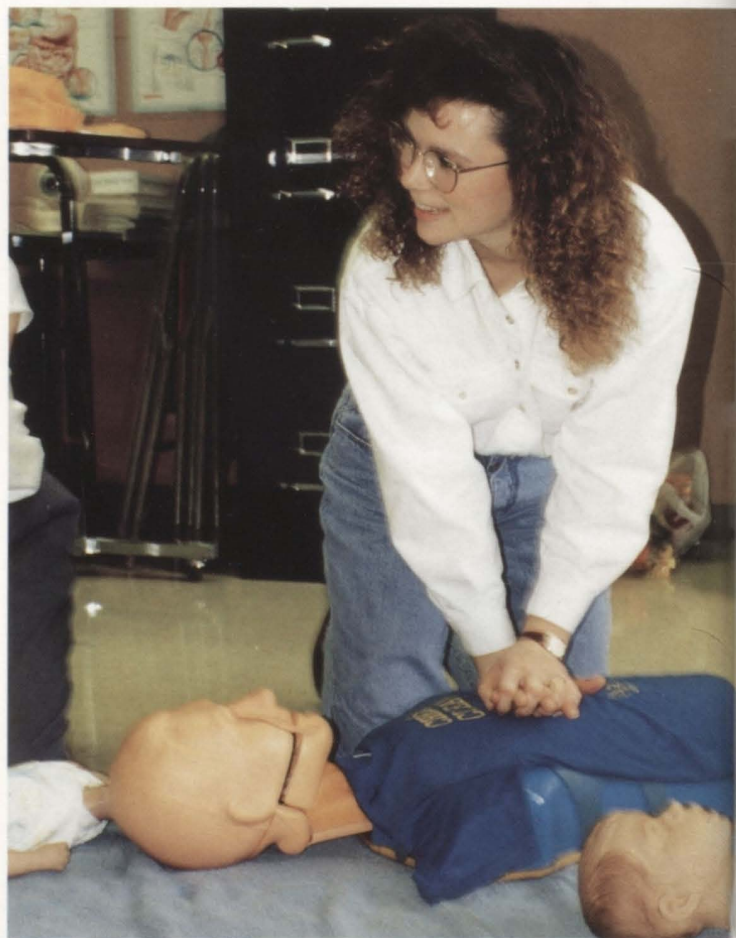

Crofford came from West Plains where he was the Marketing teacher and COE Coordinator for the South Central Area Vocational-Technical School.

"We offer the student a better chance to get a job which they can work with and have some experience with."

--James Wright

"This school lets students explore, gain knowledge and work experience and increase their chances of gaining employment."

--Elaine Duey

"We offer the opportunity for young people to explore equipment, materials and situations they could be faced with later on in their lives."

--Dennis Marquis

"We help students gain entry level skills to obtain employment in their chosen occupational field."

-- Donna White

"Our school provides opportunity for students to explore and pursue areas they find interesting and challenging."

--David Higgins

riends forever..

Forming friendships that will endure forever is one of the things the Panther does best. Many relationships begin outside of school, but some start with simple visits outside the lockers, as the Panther discovers with seniors Cindy Loch, Kristy Lindsey and Holly Brown.

Students

When Panthers want to find others and develop friendships, they don't have to look too far. From freshmen to seniors, many students at MGHS are shining through.

Walking before she runs, Marianne Goin, far left, curiously eyes the terrain and competition before one of her many cross country meets. During this early season meet, Goin and fellow runners prepared for a season which would lead them to State. Photo by Meadow McGlamery

Peek-a-boo...

Apparently trading his trumpet for a pitchfork, Jeremy Crewse, left, gets in the spirit of Moonlight Madness on the square as Mtn. Grove celebrated Halloween and enjoyed music by the high school band. Jeremy and his fellow band members traditionally don costumes for the annual event. Photo by Amanda Hutchinson

Hurry, please...

Waiting for their copy of the 1994 yearbook, Alicia Douglass, Jill Douglass and Mindy Rodgers push forward anxiously during the annual yearbook signing party, Sept. 8. The hit of the party was the students' excitement about the black Panther cover of the book which was an instant sell-out. Photo by Beth Virtue

Through the maze...

Chain gang...

They do windows...

Washing windows atop a huge dump truck, Kim McGowan, below right, joins other seniors working the gas pumps at Udderly Convenient as a fundraiser for the senior trip. Photo by Kim Holland

Goodbye kiss...

Watch out, canaries...

These two proud Panthers look as if they just made a quick meal of a Liberty eagle, perhaps; but, in reality, they are looking for a Willow Springs bear steak as they prepare for the traditional senior run. Photo by Jodi Barnes

How will the class of '95 be best remembered?

"We are one of a kind."

--Timothy Headings

"We'll be remembered for not letting people get the best of us and having our own way of thinking."

--Jennifer Ogletree

"When you have freaks that can philosophize like Tom, Matt and myself, then it's pretty stinkin' hard to forget us."

--Tristan Crotinger

"What can I say? My name will always live in legend."

--Tom Maxwell

"It's the shameful truth, but we will only be remembered as the 'class of '95'--that's it, nothing else, no special note, just the 'class of '95.'"

--Matt Lutes

"Our class will be remembered as the class that could never agree on where to go for our senior trip."

--Kim Holland

"Our class will be remembered as the most odd class that ever went through this high school."

--Ryan Allen

How will your class make it's mark on the world?

"After gaining valuable practice time in Mr. Top's College Prep class, Tommy Maxwell will enjoy a brief moment in the spotlight and from the profit of his only hit, 'Happy Birthday', he will build his own theater in Branson where he will hire Shoji Tabuchi as his back-up."

-- Sarah Duey
President

"Springfield and Mtn. Grove will finally grow together and Shane Hylton will become mayor, taking after his grandfather."

--Jodi Barnes
Vice President

"The SIDAUC will eventually take over the country. Also, Dr. Carrie Benson will marry Rush Limbaugh."

--Kim McGowan
Secretary

"Rusty Emery will go on to own a Chevy dealership selling only flourescent orange vehicles. In his spare time he will fix broken air conditioners."

--Stephanie Douglass
Treasurer

"After spending so many hours in the high school library, Gina Marah will be the curator of the Smithsonian Institute archives."

--Stephanie Hungerford
Girl Representative

"Several people we thought would be successful in other ways instead end up as greeters at Wal-Mart."

--Brian Stinson
Boy Representative

Always

Prom night always brings memories. What will be your 'Always' memory?

"I thought I would die of embarrassment when I walked up to Josh Rhodes thinking he was my boyfriend. I put my arm around him, carried on a conversation, then saw his face. I apologized and ran away."

--Sarah Duey

"I'm trying to forget Prom because I lost my date."

--Shane Hylton

"We were out at Cindy's [Loch] after Prom and we decorated Ben [Loney] with feminine products."

--Jody Hubner

"My date and I went bowling after Prom, still wearing our Prom clothes."

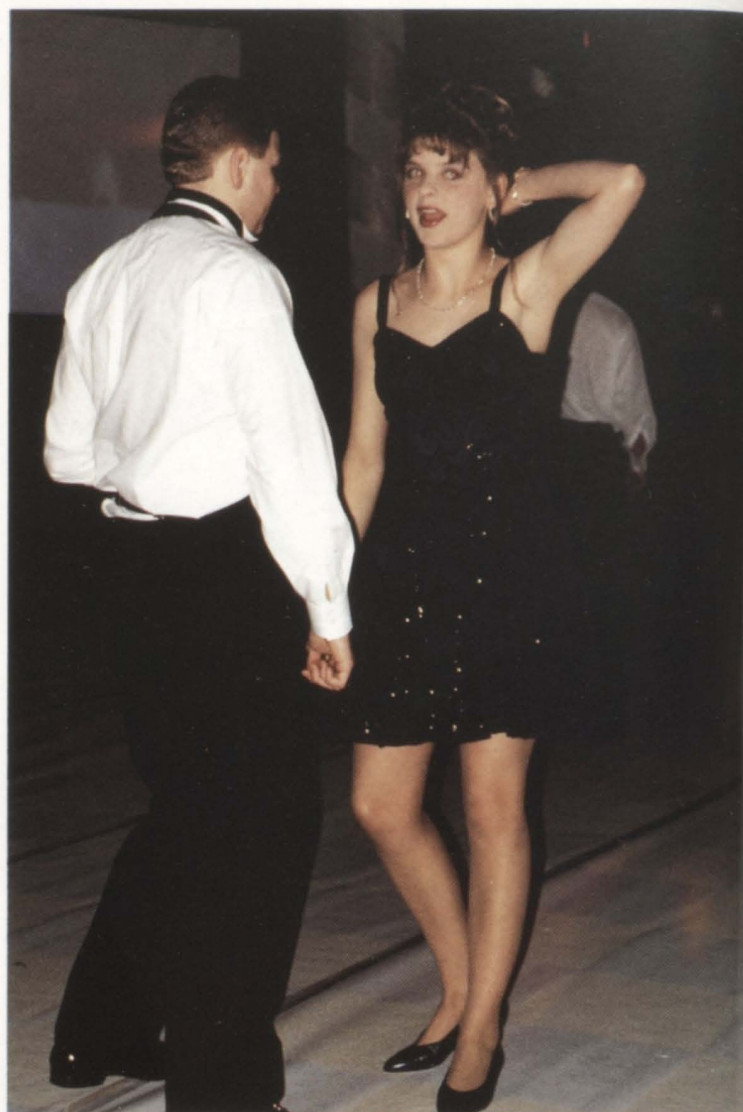

--Carrie Tuck

"I felt like singing 'Hakuna Matata' when I took the Lion King to Prom."

--Steven Freeman

"Jill Douglass screamed at the banquet. She dropped her plate of food in her lap while trying to cut her steak."

Exercises May 20 honor class of '95

by Beth Virtue

They started the year with the indecisiveness of chameleons in a crayon factory as their options were more than black and white. From the color of their graduation gowns to the destination of their senior trip, decisions were hard to make, but the class of 1995 came through with shining colors.

From the beginning these seniors have been close and dependent on one another, but on the evening of May 20 they found that they were one step closer to independence.

Class president and valedictorian, Sarah Duey gave two speeches that both encouraged her fellow classmates and blessed them as they entered life's obstacle course. Salutatorian Carrie Benson quoted words of wisdom to the class. And finally student body president Jody Hubner congratulated the class on a job well done.

Commencement exercises were cut short due to inclement weather but that did not stop the new alumni from taking off on their trip to the Lodge of the Four Seasons.

Confidence shines...

Keep truckin...

Polishing the windshield of an 18-wheeler is all in a day's work for Sarah Duey and Kim McGowan. Seniors worked pumping gas at the Udderly Convenient Store in order to raise funds for the senior trip. Other fundraisers included a chili supper and powder puff football game, fashion shows, slave auction, working concession stands and raffles of basketballs, guns and a quilt. Photo by Kim Holland

PLANETARY VISIONS

Terrorism in the Heartland

Terror in Palestine? Yes. In New York City? Maybe. But in Oklahoma City? No one could have expected something like this.

But then the unthinkable happened. At 9:02 a.m., April 19, 1995, the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, was bombed. Final count: 169 people dead, including 19 children.

Speculation about the perpetrators came immediately. Because of earlier incidents across the country and around the world, many news people were quick to report that some suspicious looking men of Middle Eastern background might be the culprits. This was easy for many Americans to believe, because of a growing fear of such people. Who else could be accused of such cold-hearted terrorism, after all?

Speculation soon gave way to eye witnesses, however, who confirmed that the bomb was not the work of some nefarious foreigner, but instead the work of at least two American men.

One of the suspects, Timothy McVeigh, his light colored hair cut in a short, 50's style flat top, was in police custody within hours of the bombing. When May arrived, McVeigh's cohort was still at large, but at least two of his associates were in custody.

169 people
dead, including 19
children

The bombing was to move even closer to home before the ordeal was over, as two men were apprehended in neighboring Carthage, Missouri, transported to Springfield, then eventually released because they could not be positively linked to McVeigh.

As the days turned into weeks, the media once again began speculating. This time, rumor was that a trial for McVeigh and any other suspects eventually apprehended, would be held in Springfield.

Closer and closer to home came the incident.

People living in America's heartland, in the Ozarks, had witnessed violent acts before, but were nevertheless stunned with the sheer ferocity of the bombing. A day care center full of children suffered the full force of the devastating blast.

Locally, students learned a whole new meaning to "global vision," a term popularized in education in recent years. They learned just how vicious disgruntled fellow Americans could be. They learned that what happens in the world also happens here. They learned that the world is here...now.

PLANE CRAZY?

Nothing may ever explain for sure why Frank Corder stole a small plane, above, and crashed in the White House lawn shortly before 2 a.m. on Sept. 15, 1994. Corder had a history of drug and alcohol abuse and was "upset" by the recent breakup of his marriage. He lost his life in the incident.

HAPPY COUPLE?

In July, 1994, actor and former professional football great, O.J. Simpson, was accused of murdering his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson, above, and her friend Ronald Goldman. The world watched as O.J. threatened suicide in a low speed chase on a California freeway. Eventually, he was arrested and the televised trial--which would last for months--began.

EXTRA INNINGS?

Negotiators were working extra innings trying to find a peaceful settlement between professional baseball players and team owners. It was finally settled in April of '95. One man, top left, is protesting the strike, a symbol for the thousands of unhappy, disgusted fans.

BURNING UP?

Or falling off? That is the question. Victimized by both earthquakes and fires, California has dealt with many natural disasters. Firefighters, left, struggle against fires that consumed much of the landscape and homes in 1994.

MEDULLA WHAT?

Senior Jeannine Norris and sophomore Marianne Goin, right, examine the medulla oblongata, a part of the brain. Norris and Goin participated in the Science Olympiad category of "The Science of Fitness" where they placed first at Districts and fourth at State. For "Fitness," Norris and Goin had to study "how the human body functions and how it's related to fitness and health," explained Goin.

SEEING COLOR?

Teacher Beverly Breedlove and senior Ryan Allen, below, examine the first color photo printed at MGHS. Compared to the black and white process, color takes longer and is more complicated. Because of the new color lab, this year's yearbook is produced with 86 percent color compared to last year's 2 percent. Photo by Alison Turner

SHOCKING IS IT?

Senior Jason Raemaker and Science Olympiad sponsor Walter Finney, left, work with a "breadboard," a device that connects resistors, LED's (light emitting diodes), jumper wires and capacitors in a circuit. Hooking up breadboards is just a part of Circuit Lab, the category Raemaker and Adam Todd competed in. They placed second in Circuit Lab at the District competition in Springfield.

IS IT GOLD?

No, it's pyrite, fool's gold that freshman Tabitha Todd and junior Sara Kaps, left, are looking at. Competing in the Science Olympiad category, "Rocks, Minerals, and Fossils," Todd and Kaps have to identify various substances including pyrite. They may be between rocks, but there's no hard place. Todd and Kaps placed first at Districts and medaled third, the alloy bronze, at State. Photo by Meadow McGlamery

THE ANSWER IS?

Academic Team varsity coach Janet Townsend, senior Carrie Benson, junior Errin Kemper and sophomore Courtney Ince, left, prepare for an upcoming competition. As Benson says, "Academic Team is not much different than any other team in school. You walk into practice, put your hair up, and try to outdo each other. The only difference is it's about knowing obscure facts instead of plays or moves." Photo by Meadow McGlamery

HOW'S THAT?

After a confusing math question, coach Janet Townsend, left, explains to senior Daren Christeson how to find the answer. Besides the math questions other categories include Literature, Geography, History and Science. For coaches Townsend and Moore, this is their first year as Academic Team sponsors. "It's been a lot of fun," said Moore. "They are an excellent group of students to work with." Photo by Meadow McGlamery

WHO'S NEXT?

MOUNTAIN GROVE VISIONS

CITY HALL

Residents first saw a traffic signal go up at the intersection of Bus. Hwy. 60 and Hwy. 95. Just a few months later in April, 1995, construction at that intersection began on a new city hall. Why a new facility? City Administrator Mike MacPherson said that because the community has grown so much, overcrowding at the Cedar Center location prompted the building which will house the police department and jail, city offices, a county court, etc.

DIAL 911

In the past when residents needed assistance, they would have to call the fire department, a different number for the paramedics, police, etc. When 1995 arrived, so did "Dial 911." This meant the names of most country roads had to be changed. For example, freshman Jabon Ellis, right, now lives on Ellis Rd. Teacher Judy Kemper and son, Nathan, reside on Kemper Rd. Mountain Grove was now ready for any emergency.

QUESTION:

What events have occurred in Mountain Grove in the past few months that will affect life here forever?

ANSWERS:

"We saw a big city' crime happen in a small town when a young woman shot and killed her boyfriend on Elm St. early in 1995. I hope something like this won't happen again."

--junior Jamie Bell

"In the last year or so, business seems to be moving out North Hwy. 95. I remember when most business was on Bus. Hwy. 60. I live out 95, and it seems like I'm getting closer and closer to town."

--junior Mandy Postlewait

"There's so much traffic now. We have one new traffic light but we need a lot more."

--junior Paula Causey

WEIGHT LIFT

The Strength and Fitness class, commonly known as weight lifting, made a pretty huge impact on the students of MGHS. It is a class for the athletic students to get in shape for the sport season they are interested in. And for the first time ever, students can compete in this event.

JOSEPH DALE VANDIVER (1977-1994)

Joe Vandiver was a junior when he died Nov. 11, 1994, in the Texas County Memorial Hospital, Houston, Mo. Joe had been a student in the Mountain Grove district since kindergarten and made many long and lasting friendships.

"I first met Joe in grade school and we were friends until the day he died," recalls junior Chad Coffman.

"I spent many hours at his house and became close to Joe, his brother Jason, and their parents. We liked to hunt and fish, play sports, and hang around at school together. He was one of a kind. It's not the same since Joe's gone," Coffman continues.

"Joe was always in a good mood," remembers junior J. T. Blackwell.

"Whenever I was in a bad mood, he had something funny to say. We spent a lot of time together and became very good friends," Blackwell adds.

Blackwell and Coffman agreed that Joe was a friend who was "always there for you."

Blackwell added that he hoped Joe's death

Showing off a string of fish, Joe jokes around with brother, Jason, one of his favorite fishing buddies. Joe loved to hunt and fish with friends, too.

would not be in vain.

"I miss him a lot and I hope I will see his big smile again someday," Blackwell said.

Funeral services at the Cabool First Baptist Church were attended by scores of Joe's friends, relatives and teachers.

He was born Feb. 8, 1977, at Mansfield. Survivors include his parents, Dale and Sheila, brothers and sisters.

Let it shine...

Shining through...

Summoning sports fans to the high school stadium, lights sparkle as the Panther begins an evening of football perhaps, or marching in the Panther Pride band, or cheerleading, or simply being one of hundreds of proud Panther fans. Panthers, after all, are very busy. That's what makes them shine. Photo courtesy Fred Krizan

PANTHER PRIDE

shining through

As you walk out of the atrium doors onto the grounds or into Panther stadium, you smile, exhausted perhaps, but proud of your day's activities.

You take with you its presence, knowing that others, too, are aware of it.

It follows you off campus; it enfolds you. Once it envelopes you, it won't let you go.

It's something mystical;
It's something POWERFUL
It's PANTHER PRIDE,
and it's shining through.

The 1995 PANTHER PRIDE shining THROUGH yearbook contains 184 pages with a press run of 300 copies.

The book is rich with four-color and formula color on virtually every page. Each page is 8 1/2" by 11" and printed on 80-pound enamel paper. The copy and captions utilized Times Roman type face. For headlines and effects, several other type faces were employed including Carpenter, Optane, Minstrel and Futurist. Students in the School Publications and Photography classes designed, wrote and executed the book using Macintosh computers and a full color darkroom on the premises. Professional photographs were provided by Krizan Photography, Arena Photography and Baldwin Photography. This book was published by Walsworth Publishing Company, Marceline, Missouri. Special thanks to Kim Homer at "Imaginations" and artist Charles Hutson for their help.
